

Kyushu University (ATW 2011): SyllabusPolitics and Society in Japan at a Turning Point*Dimitri Vanoverbeke (K.U. Leuven, Belgium)Aims & Objectives*

This course addresses dynamics of politics and society in Asia focusing on Japan in particular. The focus of this course will be on political, legal and social institutions, not only by analyzing how these institutions are shaped today but also addressing them from an historical, cultural, and sociological perspective. Based on an understanding of domestic and bilateral issues, in this course students will also study how Japan is defining its position in Asia by fostering regional cooperation and how Asia as a region is redefining its relation with the US and Europe.

The course introduces some of the main concepts and analytical approaches of political science as an academic discipline. At a time when Korea is to sign a FTA with the EU, tensions between North- and South-Korea are increasing and when Japan is experiencing apparently radical political change, following the dramatic change of government, from the Liberal Democratic Party (LDP) to the Democratic Party of Japan (DPJ), we will address a number of topical issues.

The purpose of this course is to provide students with a foundation for thinking creatively about dynamics in politics and society in Asia.

Requirements

Students will be evaluated according to participation in the class discussion and according to a simulation exercise we will prepare together in the process of the lectures.

Assessment

The assessment will be divided as follows: participation in class discussion 20% and simulation exercise: 80%.

Topic 1: The East Asian Region in a Dynamic Context

Question:

How did the dynamics of regional cooperation in Asia change over time?

Lectures mainly based on the following articles:

Peter J. Katzenstein, "Introduction: Asian Regionalism in Comparative Perspective," in Peter J. Katzenstein & Takashi Shiraishi, Network Power: Japan and Asia. (Cornel University Press 1997). 1-44.

Topic 2: Economic Policy and Soft Power in Asia –

Asia and the EU

Questions:

What are the necessary conditions for institutionalized regional cooperation in Asia?
How can increasing cooperation between Asia and the EU contribute to realize this goal?

Lectures mainly based on the following articles:

Saya S. Shiraishi, "Japan's Soft Power: Doraemon Goes Overseas," in Peter J. Katzenstein & Takashi Shiraishi, Network Power: Japan and Asia. (Cornel University Press 1997).

Topic 3: The Rule of Law, institutions and 'Good Governance':

The Constitution and Court in Japan and Korea

Questions:

How important is the Japanese constitution for today's Japan in a domestic and international context? What is the role of the Supreme Court in Japan and the Constitutional Court in Korea?

Lectures mainly based on the following articles:

Tom Ginsburg, "Rule by Law or Rule of Law? The Constitutional Court of Korea" in: Tom Ginsburg, Judicial Review in New Democracies: Constitutional Courts in Asian Cases (Cambridge University Press 2003). 206-246.

Topic 6: The State and Citizen in Dynamic Societies

Questions:

How do government and bureaucracy in Japan address important conflicts which can threaten status quo in society? What do environmental disputes and the struggle for gender equality tell us on the separation of powers?

Lectures mainly based on the following articles:

Frank K. Upham, “Environmental Tragedy and Response,” in Frank K. Upham, Law and Social Change in Postwar Japan (Harvard University Press 1987). 28-77.

Topic 7: Society and Crime in Korea and Japan

Questions:

How can we explain the low crime rate in Korea and Japan and what does it tell us about the relation between the state and citizen in these countries?

Lectures mainly based on the following articles:

Curtis J. Milhaupt & Mark D. West, “The Dark Side of Private Ordering: An Institutional and Empirical Analysis of Organized Crime,” in University of Chicago Law Review Vol. 67, Nr. 41 (2000).

David H. Bayley, Forces of Order: Police Behavior in Japan and the United States (University of California Press 1976), ch. 2.

John O. Haley, Authority Without Power: Law and the Japanese Paradox (Oxford University Press 1991). Chapter 6.

Daniel H. Foote, “Confessions and the Right to Silence in Japan,” Georgia Journal of International & Comparative Law. Vol. 21, Nr. 415 (1991).

Above mentioned texts as abbreviated in: Curtis J. Milhaupt, J. Mark Ramseyer & Michael K. Young, Japanese Law in Context: Readings in Society, the Economy, and Politics (Harvard East Asian Monographs 2001). 294-330.

Topic 8: The Politics of Change: Judicial Reforms and Fortifying the Rule of Law in Japan and Korea

Questions:

What are the necessary conditions for a fundamental reform of political institutions?
Were these conditions fulfilled in Japan and Korea in the 1990s?

Lectures mainly based on the following articles:

Vanoverbeke, D., Maesschalck, J. (2009). “Public policy perspective on judicial reform in Japan,” in Zeitschrift für Japanisches Recht / Journal of Japanese law, 14(27), 11-38.

Topic 9: Movie and discussion (I just didn't do it)

Topic 10: The “1955 System” and the Rise and Fall of One-Party Dominance in Japan

Questions:

Why did Japan's Liberal Democratic Party govern for so long and why did it lose power? What does its rise and fall tell us about the nature of democracy in post-1945 Japan?

Lectures mainly based on the following articles:

J. A. A. Stockwin, “Political Reconstruction and Development,” in Governing Japan (Oxford: Blackwell, 2008.), pp. 48-76.

Topic 11: The “Developmental State” Model and its Japanese

Variant.

Question:

What was the essence of the developmental state model and to what extent does it explain the economic successes of post-war Japan and South Korea?

Lectures mainly based on the following articles:

Chalmers Johnson, "The Developmental State: Odyssey of a Concept," in Meredith Woo-Cumings, ed. The Developmental State (Ithaca, NY: Cornell University Press, 1999), pp. 32 – 61.

Topic 12: Japanese Foreign Policy and the "Normal State" debate.

Question:

How 'normal' is Japan's post-war foreign policy and how has it changed, if at all, since the ending of the Cold War?

Lectures mainly based on the following articles:

Andrew L. Oros. Normalizing Japan. Politics, Identity and the Evolution of Security Practice. Stanford, California: Stanford University Press, 2008. Chapters 2 & 3, pp. 41-89.

Topic 13: The North Korean Nuclear Crisis and Regional Security: Japanese and Korean options

Question:

What are the origins of the North Korean nuclear crisis and how might it be solved?

Lectures mainly based on the following articles:

Victor Cha, "What do they really want? Obama's North Korea Conundrum," Washington Quarterly (October, 2009), pp. 119 – 138. [Available at: http://www.twq.com/09october/docs/09oct_Cha.pdf]
